FINE AND DECORATIVE ARTS: EDUCATION, HERITAGE
AND CONSERVATION

Fylde DFAS is a new society for people who love the arts and are interested in their heritage and in conservation.

Join us and enjoy a dynamic lecture programme on topics such as painting, architecture, furniture, ceramics, glass, silver, music, gardens, jewellery, sculpture, porcelain etc

Our Inaugural Lecture, "The Changing Face of Nature: a History of British Landscape Art" will be delivered by the Tate Gallery lecturer Valerie Woodgate on Wednesday, October 7th at the United Reformed Church, St. Annes-on- Sea.

If you would like to be more actively involved, you can also volunteer to participate in one of our proposed volunteering activities ie:

- Church Recording : recording the details of the internal fabric and furnishing of the Fylde churches; completed records to be archived at the Victoria & Albert Museum and in the English Heritage public archive
- Heritage Volunteering: helping after training, to conserve our local heritage for future generations, by working on various conservation projects e.g. cataloguing memorabilia, conserving books etc.
- Young Arts : helping young people of all ages to develop an interest in and a feeling for the arts ,culture and heritage through a range of activities ,projects and sponsorship

Membership application details are available from Olga Depledge on 01253 711706 or e-mail fylde.nadfas@gmail.com

The membership is limited due to the restriction of the capacity of the Hall so please don't delay in sending in your application, as we expect to be full very soon, after which a waiting list will be established.
